Invitation: Biomimicry Workshop

Biomimicry is architectural discipline with an approach to innovation that seeks sustainable solutions to human challenges by matching nature's solutions, patterns and strategies. Our presenter is Director and founder of Biomimicry UK, Richard MacCowan.

Dear colleagues,

It is a great pleasure to announce the 3rd Green Culture event (www.greenculture.world) which will take place at the Ada Bojana resort, near Ulcinj (by the restaurant Barbana), Montenegro 10-12 September 2015.

Green Culture is gathering worldwide experts on sustainability in the creative sector. This year we are presenting series of Masterclasses for compact groups, so we can achieve more effective learning and set up action points at the end of each workshop. One of these workshops is on the subject of Biomimicry, and we are taking this opportunity to invite you to join us.

Some of the results of the workshops will be presented at the next Green Culture event in May 2016. It is also interesting to mention that we are planning an Awards Ceremony for next year, so you can nominate your organisation for The Greenest Award, details on nominations will follow.

The Biomimicry Workshop

On this occasion we are inviting you to register for the Biomimicry Workshop, architectural discipline with an approach to innovation that seeks sustainable solutions to human challenges by matching nature's solutions, patterns and strategies. This is a rare opportunity to have this kind of workshop in Montenegro and the region. The presenter is Richard MacCowan, Director and founder of Biomimicry UK (www.biomimicry-uk.org).

The workshop is taking place on Thursday 10th September 14-17h at the Ada Bojana Resort, next to the restaurant Barbana.

The working language of the workshop is English.

This is your opportunity to make a difference and contribute to the green agenda. Coming closer to COP21 in Paris later this year, which Green Culture will attend, makes this event a great opportunity to share our plans and achievements and set the next steps for mutual support of the green mission in the region and wider.

We are holding a Welcome Green Culture Beach Party at the Ada Bojana resort (Barbana Restaurant) on the 9th September at 19.30pm and we are delighted to invite you to join us there too.

Kindest regards,

Green Culture Team
